

JOURNAL

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Friday - 8 March 1963

25X1

[redacted] Advised by Mr. James Kendall, Counsel, Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee, that Rules Committee had not finally reported funds necessary for Committee operation and that it would be necessary to delay placing [redacted] on the rolls until the funds were available. Advised [redacted] he would be continued on Agency rolls until the Subcommittee was able to employ him formally.

25X1

25X1

25X1

[redacted] Advised by Mr. William Berg, Jr., Administrative Assistant to Senator Wayne Morse (D., Oreg.), that the Senator's remarks in New Haven had been extemporaneous and from any information available in the office no tape was made of the address. I noted, however, that it might be worth our while to check with the sponsoring organization in New Haven to see if they might have made a tape.

It was noted in conversation with Mr. Berg in passing that the tenor of the Senator's remarks was such that it would appear the Senator now favors a Joint Congressional Committee. Previous conversations with Mr. Berg and the Senator had indicated quite a different viewpoint relating to the desirability of more information available to the Foreign Relations Committee. Mr. Berg indicated that this was a point he intended to check with the Senator.

25X1

[redacted]

Tex.)

Discussed with Miss Norma J. Corley, assistant to Congressman Bob Casey, the letter of January 30 from Mr. Joe K. Moss concerning "Russian flights over the United States" and "Investigation of the Institute of Defense Analysis, headed by one Richard Bissell," which was forwarded by transmittal slip to this Agency on 15 February.